Correct Game Laws.

To perhaps none but the leading sportsman of the state, are the game laws for this fall clear, in view of the changes made by the last legislature. A number of incorrect reports relative to the true laws have been circulating, and as the open season is only about two weeks away, it is time for the huntsman of the state to know exactly what they can and cannot do. The open season for a number of game birds and creatures have been extended, while the law relative to killing of deer have been made more stringent than ever before. It will this season take an expert to kill his deer in compliance with the law, so a little practice before hand would not come amiss.

The open season for killing game is as follows:

Plover, number uulimited, July 15 to December 1.

Doves and shore birds, number unlimited, September 1 to January 1.

Wild water-fowls, umber unlimited September 1 to April 10, without intermission.

Snipe, number unlimited, September 1 to May 1.

Pheasants, five in one day, twenty in one week, fifty in one season, October 1 to December 1.

Squirrels, six in one day, October 1 to December 1.

Bears, unlimited, October 1 to March 1.

Wild turkeys, one in a day, four in a season, October 15 to December 1.

Rabbits, unlimited, October 15 to December 1. The penalty for taking a rabbit out of a hole has been removed and it is now lawful to take them in any manner during the season.

Quail or partridge, ten in one day, forty in one week, seventy-five in one season, November 1 to December 1. The quail season is unchanged, but additional provision for the protection of birds are made. It is unlawful to shoot or injure quails when bunched upon the ground; or to kill any game birds at night; or to kill any game at all by the use of any gun other than the kind usually raised at arm's length and fired from the shoulder.

The change in the deer law is important. The open season is from November 15 to December 1, but hereafter only male deer with horns may be killed. Does and fawns are absolutely protected. This became necessary by reason of the fact that the number of hunters is so great that deer in season are practically driven from cover to cover as if they were pursued by dogs. The penalty for violation of the law is $100 or a day in jail for each dollar. It will be safest to leave the head on the carcass to prove the deer killed had horns

Teachers' Institute.

The Annual Teachers' Institute will convene in Emporium, Oct. 21-25. This promises to be the most successful institute in the history of the county. The best talent has been secured for both day and evening instruction and entertainment.

Latest Popular Music.

Miss May Gould, teacher of piano forte has received a full line of the lat est and most popular sheet music. All the popular airs. Popular and classical music. Prices reasonable. 44-tf.

Accidental Mistakes.

A good one is going the rounds: A certain business man in a town not 1000 miles away was sitting in the office alone, enjoying a smoke, when he had occasion to use the telephone. He arose, laid the cigar on the chair and took down the receiver when a friend stepped in the offie and started to sit down on a chair. Not realizing that the operator could hear what he was saying and just as she was going to say what "number please" in her sweetest tones, the man yelled, "Look out there, you'll burn your pants!" Communication between him and central was cut off immediately.

Must Stand Criticism.

The court at Somerset with Judge Martin Bell of Blair county, on the bench, a decision was rendered in the libel case against a newspaper that seems destined to act as a precedent in like cases that may be instituted hereafter in other courts of the state.

Editor A. Kendall of the Meyersdale Republican was sued by Clinton A. Wagner, one time opposition party candidate for prothonotary, who alleged the editor had published defamatory matter about him during the campaign.

Judge Bell took the case from the jury and decided the case in favor of Kendall. The court held that when a citizen becomes a candidate for office, a paper opposed to him may voice its sentiments with impunity.

According to the court's decision any candidate will hereafter be compelled to stand the fire of merciless criticism.

Died Down East.

Last Friday word was received here of the death of Michael Hacket, proprietor of the Medix Run Hotel, who accompanied by his two children and a niece were on a visit to Mr. Hacket's old home at Chatham, N. B. His death was caused by heart failure. Mr. Hacket received a fall sometime ago in which he hurt himself badly and has been troubled from the effects ever since, but his death was a great shock to his friends.

His remains were brought to his old home at Driftwood on Monday for interment. The funeral was held on Wednesday. His age was 49 years.

Deceased was a widower and is survived by two children, a girl and a boy aged seven and nine years respectively. Also by two brothers, John and James Hacket, both of whom reside at Driftwood.

Preferred by Business Men.

Young men and women trained in the Rochester Business Institute are sought for positions in the best business houses. Thoroughly parpared assistants are what business men constantly need, and they have learned from experience that R. B. I., gradnates have the requisite preparation. 1407 calls for graduates to fill excellent places within a single year speaks volumes for the reputation of the school.

How to Know Time for Contagion.

The following time table should be preserved by every mother, as it is often the source of the greatest anxiety to know whether or not a child will develop a desease after having been exposed to it. Symptoms usually appear as follows:

Chickenpox	Fourteenth day
Diphtheria	Second day
Measles	Fourteenth day
Mumps	Nineteenth day
Scarlet fever	Fourth day
Smallpox	Twelfth day
Typhoid fever	Twenty-first day
Whooping cough	Fourteenth day

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for Constipation.

The Touch that Heals.

Is the touch of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the happiest combination of Arnica flowers and healing balsams ever compounded. No matter how old the sore or ulcer is, this Salve will cure it. For burns, scalds, cuts, wounds or piles, it's an absolute cure. Guaranteed by all druggists. 25c.

A Woman's View.

Far be it from a mere man, like ourself, to pen an indictment against the opposite sex. In the first place, we are too chrivalous and gallant to do such a thing. In the second place, it would not be safe for us to do it. This consideration is incidental, but by no means to be disregarded. In the third place, is is not necesaary; for women can always be depended upon to say of one another and of their sex generally all that needs to be said.

Mrs. Anna A. Rogers in the September Atlantic discusses the question, "Why American Marriages Fail," and boldly charges her own sex with a large share of responsibility for the growing prevalence of the divorce evil. Mrs. Rogers, it may be said in passing, refuses to take the view that divorce is not an evil, but only an attempt to remedy an evil. Divorce is an evil, just astoo ready a resort to the surgeon's knife and saw is an evil. "Gentler remedies," says Mrs. Rogers, "dietary measures, the daily regime of more intelligent living, have been known to spare more than one patient the horrors of the operating table. In fact is not prevention the only genuine modern miracle?"

In the bill of charges, which Mrs. Rogers brings against her own sex she specifies: "(1) Woman's failure to realize that marriage is her work in the world. (2) Her growing individualism. (3) Her lost art of giving, replaced by a highly developed receptive faculty."

"First: Marriage it woman's work in the world—not man's. From whatever point it is viewed, physical or spiritual, as a question of civic polity or a question of individual ethics, it is her specific share in the world's work—first, last, and always; allotted to her by laws far stronger than she is. And the woman who fails to recognize it has the germ of divorce in her veins at the outset. * * * Why should she not be taught the plain fact that no other work really important to the world has ever been done by a woman since "the morning of the world?" Only as a woman, with all that that entails upon her, is she alone, pre-eminent, unapproachable. And yet apparently her whole energy is to-day bent upon dethroning herself."

Mrs. Rogers sees in the growing individualism of the American woman only another name for the worship of Self. "She has not merged her fate with her husband's if married, nor with her father's, if not; she does not properly supplement their lives, she is striving for a detached profitless individuality."

We shall quote but one more paragraph from this thoughtful and timely article. Upon her third point Mrs. Rogers says: "In India an affection which asks for an equal, return so many heart-beats for a like number, is called 'shop-keeping.'" Among us Westerners this Eastern exalted faculty of giving affection, and not looking for an equal exchange of commodities, has degenerated into a sott of passion for sentimental bargains! Unfortunately, there are no genuine psychic bargains thrown out on life's counter. The really good spiritual things cost the most do, as the material things. Success in any undertaking, even marriage, is always both shy and obstinate, and hides behind quite a thorny hedge of persistence, hard work, unsefishness, and above all, patience, a quality now gone out of fashion, which made our grandmothers civilizing centers of peace and harmony; for they were content to use slow curative measures to mend their matrimonial ailments, and the "knife" was looked upon with horror. One finds so often in the women of that generation a strange quiet as of wisdom long digested; a deep abiding strength, an aloofness of personality that makes for dignity; sweet old faces that bear the marks of "love's grandeur." What is there today in all this fret and fuss and fury of feminine living, that compares with the power for good of those wonderful old women, fast disappearing?"

To check a cold quickly, get from your druggist some little Candy Cold Tablets called Preventics. Druggists everywhere are now dispensing Preventics, for they are not only safe, but decidedly certain and prompt. Preventics contain no quinine, no laxative nothing harsh nor sickening. Taken at the "sneeze stage". Preventics will prevent Pneumonia, Bronchitis, La Grippe, etc. Hence the name, Preventics. Good for feverish children. 48 Preventics 25 cents. Trial boxes 5c. Sold by all dealers.

GRANGERS AT CENTRE HALL.

For the Patrons of Husbandry Exhibition at Centre Hall, Pa., Sept. 14-20, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell special excursion tickets to Centre Hall to all stations in Pennsylvania and from Baltimore and Elmira at reduced rates. Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Good wish to extend their thanks to the neighbors and friends who so kindly aided them in the sickness and death of their baby.

A Correction.

In our last issue in our account of the death of Mr. Rosetti's child we were misinformed as to his nationality, it should have read "French" instead of Italian.

Killed at Olean.

Mrs. Carrie Meyers, of Springfield, Mass., a professioal balloonist fell from a parachute over a thousand feet above the fair grounds at Olean last Monday. Every bone in her body was broken.

A Good Sign.

We are informed that the proprietor of one of our hotels has posted a sign in his house announcing that he will not permit gambling. There can be only one thing associated with cards (or any other game) that is worse than gambling, and that is cheating.

Bought a Farm.

L. S. Fisk has purchased a farm on West Creek, where he will put in all his spare time while not engaged at his planing mill, and expects to be able next year to have an exhibit at the fair that will make the eyes of our old farmers water. We do not know what he intends to raise but we presume it is Indian turnips.

County Sunday School Convention.

The sixth annual convention of the County Sunday School Association held in the Baptist Church on Monday and Tuesday, was the best attended and most enthusiastic gathering of the kind yet held in Cameron county. The Rev. C. F. Irwin, of Bellevue, and Miss Ermina, Lincoln, of Philadelphia represented the State Association. A full report of the proceedings will appear in our columns next week.

Not a Debatable Issue.

The Democratic candidate for State Treasurer indicates that it is his purpose to make the issue in the campaign the retention of a representative of the minority party on the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, says Philadelphia Press.

If there is any issue concerning that board it is the clearing its membership of the auditing and accounting officers of the State, and that would take away the State Treasurer, as it should. The Capitol Investigating Commission recommend that in its report to the Governor, and there is very little doubt that Governor Stuart will recommend it in his message to the next Legislature.

The proposition was met with practically unanimous favor. Every Democratic newspaper, as well as every Republican newspaper which has commented on it, has given it approval. It is obviously wrong that officials who are to pass upon contract work shall be in a position to make the contracts, audit the accounts and pay them. It affords no check of any kind where the officials may be careless or dishonest. That this will be radically changed by the next Legislature can be set down as very certain.

Meantime it is not a question of putting a Democrat on the board. What is wanted is that the board, as long as it must exist, shall be constituted of vigilant, careful men who have popular confidence. Does not Governor Stuart meet that requirement? Does not Auditor General Young meet it? Would not John O. Sheatz as State Treasurer meet it completely? Not even the most virulent of the opposition organs has assumed to question the personal integrity of Mr. Sheatz, and those who are honest with themselves have frankly conceeded both his independence and unimpeachable character.

Yielding all the Democrats claim for their candidate he could do no more to protect the interest of the State, if elected, than the Republican nominees will do, and Mr. Sheatz's public record is justly accepted as assurance of that. Our Democratic friends evidently misunderstand the present conditions. Every demand for a watchful, faithful, honest management of the State finances will be met by the election of Mr. Sheatz.

The Democratic candidate's pretended issue has nothing to stand upon in the face of such facts. When the people can put a man like Mr. Sheatz on guard they have nothing to fear.

Baby Contest.

On account of the wet weather the contest for babies under one year old, at the fair, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon was postponed until Friday afternoon.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

Everybody sbould attend the fair. Lots that may interest you to be seen their.

With the continued advance in the price of paper stock, ink, and in fact about everything that goes into the manufacture of a newspaper, we often wonder what a publisher that is carrying less than 200 inches of advertising (and a third of that for his own office) thinks of the "sliding scale of rates." If there is a profit in such a business, there is certainly a secret about the publishing business we have never caught onto.—Ex.

The new digest of the game and fish laws of Pennsylvania. prepared by Secretary Kalbfus, of the State Game Commission, has just come from the printer. It is a 240-page pamphlet, of convenient pocket size, and contains a complete index. To meet the widespread demand for information as to the game and fish laws, the Legislature authorized 100,000 copies of this book, 50,000 to be distributed by members of the House, 20,000 by the members of the Senate and 30,000 by the heads of various State departments. Persons desiring copies of this pamphlet should apply to their Senator or Representatives.

The new law with reference to water troughs will be of interest to the township supervisors and country residents. The act provides that water troughs shall be six feet in length, 12 inches in width and 10 inches in depth in the clear, except stone troughs, which shall not be less than two feet in length. Persons who shall provide a watering trough on any public road where running water can be supplied for such troughs, and keep the same in repair, shall receive $5 per annum from the road fund. Provided: That if more than one trough is erected and maintained on the same road within five miles, but one such trough shall be entitled to the benefit of the act, and the oldest and first trough shall have the preference.

When you are inclined to speak harshly to the telephone girl because she can't answer twenty calls at one time and always give you the first chance, just remember the following toast given her by an Illinois man: "Here's to the telephone girl; an employee who does the most work and suffers the most abuse for the money she receives, who does the most favors that are unappreciated by those upon whom they are conferred; who knows more about men than the sociologist does; more about women than the officers of the federation of clubs; more about the manner of children than the teacher does, and who can tell where every gentleman and lady lives. She is seen in all lands, in all climes, and speaks all tongues. God bless her."—Curwensville Mountaineer.

The Dull Child.

Among other interesting topics discussed at the Round Table conference of city teachers recently was one concerning the dull child, says the Altoona Tribune. Parents and teachers know that he exists. Frequently he tortures them. No less frequently they torture him. He is at their mercy. When he becomes unbearable they do something. But he, poor chap, has no refuge from the burden of adult boredom. He is obliged to submit to overwhelming authority and power.

It was brought out by the discussion that the dull lad is not always the feeble and profitless man. One of the speakers half humorously, half seriously, depreciated the existence of unusual "brightness" among children. The infant genius usually disappoints the hopes of his friends. He becomes an adult inanity. On the other hand the blockhead of the schools often becomes the man of affairs. In such cases it may have been the teacher who was the blockhead. Such things are not impossible.

The child whom the ignorant parents or the careless teacher puts down as a dullard may simply be misunderstood. There are children whose timidity and sensitiveness throw them into a perfect stuper of fright when menaced by punishment for failure to obey a misunderstood or unheard command. The superficial and impatient adult who has to deal with them declares they are stubborn and rebellious, deserving severe punishment. If the punishment follow, the child may be thrown into paroxmys of fright. It is a fearful thing to deal unjustly with a timid and a sensitive little one who may also be suffering from defective hearing or imperfect vision.

Croaking Again.

Another shooting scrape is reported from Emporium. This time the fellow took to the streets in his night clothes, followed by shots of an irate husband. Evidently some one must have secured another jug of Port Allegany fire water.—Reporter.

From reading the Reporter one would think that Port Allegany was free from all troubles of the above nature, but from another source we learn that a most disgraceful fight was pulled off between two women residents of that peaceful little village, on one of the principal streets one day last week, in which one woman was knocked down by the other, who proceeded to jump upon her in a most shameful manner. Family troubles are said to be the cause of all this disorder. We failed to see a report of the affair in the Reporter which is always first to find fault elsewhere. "Evidently that fire water" is bad stuff.

Won Easily.

The High School base ball team defeated the High School team, of St. Marys, at the Park grounds yesterday afternoon 15 to 3. The boys feel very proud of their victory as they have not lost a game this season. Our first team should sit up and take notice.

Found a Watch.

Tuesday morning while F. P. Rentz was milking his cow he noticed something bright on the barn floor and upon picking it up discovered it to be a watch. How it came there is somewhat of a mystery, but it is supposed that some of our mid-night prowlers had been in the barn and lost it.

"The Toymakers."

Those who live to laugh look forward with pleasure to the coming of "The Jollities" who open in the Emporium Opera House, on Thursday, Oct. 31, for one night only, in their new musical absurdity called "The Toymakers" which is the great success of this season. A good company of clever people who know how to sing act and dance.

Big Birds on Small Wings.

In the attempt to discover some universal law of bird flight, scientists have disclosed concerning a number of species a most puzzling paradox, perhaps the most mysterious of the enigmas that the subject presents, says a writer in Everybody's Magazine. It is that in a number of birds and insects the size of the wings decreases in proportion to the increase in size of the body of the flying creature. The Australian crane, for instance, weighs over 300 times more than the sparrow, but in proportion has only one-seventh the wing area of the smaller bird. This curious fact is equally striking if we compare birds with insects. If the gnat were increased in size until it was as large as the Australian crane and if the wings of the insect were enlarged to maintain the proportion they now bear to its body, they would be about 150 times larger than the crane's. It requires 3.62 square feet of wing area per pound to float the bank-swallow, but to sustain the tawny vulture, a monster bird in comparison, requires only .68 of a square foot of wing surface per pound of body. The albatross, weighing 18 pounds, has a spread of wing of 11 feet and 6 inches, while the trumpeter swan, weighing 28 pounds, has a spread of wing of only eight feet. The stork weighs eight times more than the pigeon, but in proportion has only half as much wing surface.

Theodore Shonts reaches up into some mysterious store of universal information and, having grabbed off a handful of more or less canned wisdom, lays down a few qualities that a man should have before a girl should think of marrying him, says Chicago News. Briefly, the description of the only man fitted for wedlock is this: He should be perfect mentally, morally and physically and also be some pumpkin financially. Mr. Shonts may be right, but as there are only a few for that kind of man would first take nial bargain counter, the great majority of the girls will have to accept husbands with a few flaws or go single. Of course the girl who was waiting fo rthat kind of man would first take the trouble to be perfect herself, but that might be a simple matter for her. Even then she might be happy with a man having imperfections provided she was too polite to notice them. The sensible girl figures it out that the best she can get is the average man and makes up her mind to be happy with him if he will let her.

Shipping men of both sides of the Aalantic have been much gratified by the announcement that the treasury department is asking for bids for the derelict destroyer which was authorized by the latest congress. This vessel, which is to be stationed on the North Atlantic, will embody the latest improvements in craft of her kind, and will be capable of cruising for 5,000 miles without replenishing her bunkers. She will be furnished, the Scientific American says, with powerful searchlights and a wireless telegraph equipment, the latter to enable her to receive and give information as to the location of derelicts.

A 54-foot residence lot in New York is described by a local paper as "tremendously large." That may be a good sized frontage for little old New York, but it would be cramped quarters in the west, where people really live.

DIFFICULT PROBLEM

HOW TO REDUCE PRICES WITHOUT LOWERING WAGES.

Inasmuch as the Purpose of Tariff Revision Is to Force Down Values, It Is Not Easy to See How American Labor Will Be Able to Escape the Cheapening Process.

It is gratifying to learn that somebody has solved the difficult problem of how to lower the tariff, increase foreign competition and bring down prices without decreasing either the volume or the rate of wages paid to American labor. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts is the man. In a speech at Nantasket Beach on the 8th of August, according to the report in the New York Press,

"Lodge said there would be no revision of the tariff before 1909; that the party leaders were opposed to any tariff tinkering preceding a presidential election; that a revision would not mean the lowering of duties on any manufactures the importation of which would hurt our workingmen, and that a new tariff act would be along the old Republican lines of protection for the American workingmen."

Here we have the problem solved, but with no hint as to the process of solution. Like all the rest of the tariff "reformers," Mr. Lodge fails to furnish a bill of particulars. The tariff, he tells us, is going to be reduced along protective lines and not on any manufactures the importation of which would hurt our workingmen.

In that case, how shall competition be increased from abroad and prices lowered accordingly? For it must not be forgotten that the sole end and aim of tariff revision downward is to increase competition and force lower prices. If this were not the end sought, why talk of tariff revision?

Now, as a general rule, there are but two causes of price reduction. One is a diminished demand, and the other is an increased supply offered at cut rates. At present there is no decrease of demand and no overproduction to break down values. On the contrary, prices remain firm and the facilities of every line of domestic production are strained to the utmost to supply the demand. Then if the supply is to be so increased as to break down prices, it must be by importations bearing lower values. This is plain. Just how the tariff is going to be tinkered to suit all the shouters for downward revision Mr. Lodge does not make clear. He does not tell us how the tariff can be so manipulated in the revision process as to satisfy the free-traders, the "progressive" Republicans like Cummins, who want to bring in foreign competition that will do away with "the monstrous extortion and graft" being practiced under the Dingley tariff, and the demand for free raw materials and reciprocity in competive products that is so strenuous in Massachusetts, and at the same time keep the peace with American labor on the farms and in the mines, mills and factories. The jaunty, offhand assurance that all this can and will be done when the tariff comes up for revision will hardly suffice.

Gratifying it is to know that the tariff is not going to be touched until after March 4, 1909. We don't know how Mr. Lodge has managed to settle this thing so conclusively, but he seems to have settled it to his own satisfaction. But not to the satisfaction of Gov. Guild. On the same platform and within the same hour Guild reiterated his burning desire for immediate tariff revision. Not without some show of reason and consistency, one would think. If the present tariff is so atrocious as it is thought to be by Guild and Foss and Cummins and Whitney and a lot of other urgent revisionists, why postpone the remedy for three years? If the country is not now prosperous; if labor is unemployed; if wages are low and poverty acute; if business halts and ruin stalks abroad; if commercial failures and soup houses are the chief crop of the year—if all these things are true because of the Dingley tariff, Guild is right and Lodge is wrong, and not a moment should be lost in repealing the Dingley tariff.

But, if none of these things are true; if prosperity is at high water mark; if labor is scarce and wages the highest ever heard of and poverty is almost unknown; if business is the best and commercial failures the fewest on record—if, on the contrary, all these things are true (and they are true), then both Guild and Lodge are wrong. Then we should not only not be talking about immediate tariff revision downward, but we should not be talking about tariff revision two or three years hence; we ought not to be talking about tariff revision at all. We should let the tariff absolutely alone.

Would Wipe It Out Entirely.

Tariff talkers, who treat the question of revision fairly and honestly, ask the would-be tariff tinkers, free-traders, tariff reformers and promoters of selfish interests—all enemies of the protective tariff—to name the sections they would revise. Should they all comply, the free-traders and tariff reformers (they are one and the same) would name enough to wipe out the protective tariff entirely, and even should this class of tariff haters keep still, the demands of the representatives of selfish interests would prove so diversified as to cover all classes of goods and would wipe out the protective principle entirely. This the true friends of the protective tariff will never submit to.—Tiffin (O.) Tribune.

BECOME A DUMPING GROUND.

What Would Follow a Reduction of the Tariff.

If our tariff is reduced, as is seriously proposed, the United States will become the common dumping ground of the German and the British trusts, in competition with each other. The American people can then have the pleasure of buying steel at a very low price, probably less than the cost of production. They will also have, concurrently, the pleasure of finding other employment for many thousands of workmen, as American steel plants shut down in the face of such a competition.

Free traders in this country are relying in their forthcoming assault upon the tariff on the prejudice they may be able to arouse by reason of the fact that a small percentage—a very small percentage, almost infinitesimal as compared with the whole—is sold abroad cheaper than at home. But that is the settled policy of manufacturers in European countries, and especially is it the policy of free trade England. If we should lower any of our protective duties below the point of adequate protection European manufacturers would go after this market—the richest and the greatest in the world—if they had to give their goods away. And their people at home would applaud them for doing it, expecting to reap their reward later on. Meantime, with American industries crippled, millions of our laborers would be without employment and hence unable to sustain the tremendous buying power that the country now possesses and which is the foundation of our unexampled prosperity.

We went all through this experience only a few years ago, but some of us seem to be itching for another term at it. If they keep on fussing we shall get it.—Cedar Rapids Republican.

ON ACCOUNT OF THE "EXPORT PRICE" PRIVILEGE.

Senior Partner—We shall have to wind up our cruise and get back to New York at once.

Junior Partner—Why, what has happened? No bad news, I hope.

Senior Partner—Bad enough, I should think. Six of our biggest department store customers write that hereafter they will buy direct from the New York agents of German manufacturers, instead of buying from us as heretofore. Consequently we are out of it, and it will be necessary for us to cut down our working force and retrench all round so long as the United States government permits foreign manufacturers to consign goods to their own agents at "export prices."

Great Britain Also? Of Course.

The Philadelphia Record utterly misconceives the situation when it says that the American Protective Tariff league is "urging on shallow grounds that Great Britain shall be denied what has been conceded to Germany." Nothing of the sort; quite the contrary. The American Economist has uniformly contended that if we are going into the game of playing tariff favorites Great Britain should be granted equal favors; in fact, should be granted more, because she is a better customer than Germany by two to one, and, besides, she imposes no tariff at all upon our products (saving a strictly revenue tariff on spirits and tobacco), whereas Germany has doubled her tariff against our products. It may be that our gifted state department will find a way to let Great Britain in on an equal footing with Germany, and so avoid the shame and disgrace of mistreating our best customer. It is earnestly to be hoped that such will be the outcome, and that not only Great Britain but every other nation on earth will be granted the equivalent of the concessions granted to Germany. The sooner the better, for then the country will have a broad comprehension of the policy and a clear understanding of the practical effects of revising the tariff downward by diplomatic dickering.

Ten Years of Dingley Tariff.

Last Wednesday was the tenth anniversary of the enactment of the Dingley tariff law. And what a change there is in conditions!

Ten years is not a long period in the world's history. The memories of most of us can easily span it. Ten years ago our foreign trade was less than $2,000,000,000, now it is more than $3,000,000,000 a year. Then the governmentt revenues were insufficient to cover the expenditures, while now, with the expenditures greatly increased, we have a substantial surplus. At that time business was depressed and industry languished, while now there is prosperity on every side. Ten years ago freight cars were going to decay on the sidings with no call for their use, and now, with vastly increased equipment, it is the freight that is tied up because there are not cars enough. The ten years under the Dingley tariff have been such years of activity and growth as neither this country nor the world has ever known. —Grand Rapids Herald.

VOYAGE MARKS A NEW EPOCH

MAIDEN TRIP OF BIGGEST STEAMSHIP WAS A SUCCESS.

The Lusitania Crosses the Atlantic from Queenstown to New York in Five Days, 54 Minutes.

New York City—A few days ago there was a local celebration of the hundredth anniversary of that proud occasion when Robert Fulton's 130-foot steamer Clermont went puffing up the Hudson river at five miles an hour. On Friday New Yorkers turned out to welcome a steam craft, the passengers of which breakfasted in Queenstown, Ireland, Sunday and lunched in New York yesterday. Both experiments were epoch-making in the way of propulsive power—the Clermont with her side paddles and the new Cunarder with her quadruple turbines.

The voyage of the Lusitania was most important in that it was a test of the most modern propulsive power. This is the view taken by her owners, who are satisfied that practicability of the turbine for fast vessels has been demonstrated and that this new departure in English shipbuilding has been justified. The fact that the Lusitania was able to cross the Atlantic in five days and 54 minutes and was able on her maiden trip nearly to equal the best trans-Atlantic record, is held to be of secondary importance.

Officials of the line said that the Lusitania had done all that was expected of her without her having been pushed to make a record.

Heretofore, it was pointed out, turbines have been constructed for moderate speed, but on the Lusitania and her sister ship, the Mauritania, built with the greatest government subsidy ever paid, was staked the British hope that turbine-driven vessels would prove not only the most comfortable, but the swiftest liners afloat.

The Lusitania is the largest liner ever built, being 790 feet long. Her breadth is 88 feet, depth 60 feet and gross tonnage 32,500.

The Lucania, also of the Cunard line, and the previous record holder, which started to pace the Lusitania with 15 minutes' advantage at Queenstown, reached Sandy Hook bar at 9 o'clock last night, 13 hours behind the new ship.

BURTON NAMES HIS AIDES.

New Commander-in-Chief of G. A. R. Appoints His Staff.

Saratoga, N. Y. — Veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic who have been attending the forty-first annual encampment of the organization concluded their business Friday and adjourned until 1908. Installation of the newly-elected officers, adoption of several recommendations from the committee on resolutions and Commander-in-Chief Burton's announcement of appointive officers took up the time.

The encampment adopted the report of the committee on resolutions which recommended legislation by congress authorizing the erection of a soldiers' hospital in the vicinity of the Gulf of Mexico; increasing widows' pensions to $12 a month; providing some suitable memorial for the soldiers and sailors of the Union army who were in the south when the war began and did not join the southern forces, and directing that widows of soldiers buried in the national cemeteries may be buried beside their husbands. These recommendations will be incorporated in bills to be presented to congress.

A resolution was adopted directing the new commander-in-chief to choose a committee, consisting of one member from each department, to prepare plans for a suitable celebration of President Lincoln's birthday anniversary, February 12, 1909.

Commander-in-Chief Burton's appointments include the following: Jere T. Dew, Kansas City, Mo., adjutant general; Charles Burrows, Rutherford, N. J., quartermaster general; Col. D. R. Stowitz, Buffalo, inspector general; L. W. Collins, Minneapolis, judge advocate general; Henry Heacomb, Philadelphia, assistant adjutant general and custodian of records; Corey Winans, Toledo, senior aide-de-camp and chief of staff. Retiring Commander Brown was made chairman of the committee on pensions.

Miss Millie Leighton, of Clinton, Mass., was elected president of the Daughters of Veterans.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE.

Retail Business Increases at the Leading Cities.

New York.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Retail trade increases at the leading cities as the vacation season closes, and the opening of the fall lines is attended with most satisfactory results. As the staple crops are secured and marketed there is a prompt improvement in mercantile collections throughout the agricultural districts and the decline in prices was especially helpful in stimulating export trade. There is still much conservatism in placing contracts for future business and decreased speculation is another factor that aids in restoring normal financial conditions.

Postponed business is coming more freely to the steel mills and there is less disposition to wait for more favorable conditions. Structural steel shapes are constantly ordered, especially for bridge work, and the railways seek all forms of supplies in larger quantity than was expected for some months.

Dynamite in Grain Exploded.

Chippewa Falls, Wis. — An explosion of dynamite in a bundle of grain Friday injured five men and wrecked a threshing machine on the farm of Peter Peterson. Investigation developed the fact that dynamite had been placed in several bundles of grain. The miscreant has not been found.

Lafayette, Ind. — In a riot Friday between Purdue university students and city toughs, six students were severely injured and 15 others were severely beaten.

REV. TINSLEY ON TRIAL FOR HERESY

MINISTER IS ACCUSED BEFORE M. E. CONFERENCE.

IN SESSION AT CLEVELAND.

He Is Charged with Preaching Contrary to the Established Standards and of an "Un-Christian Like Attitude."

Cleveland, O. — Two trials of ministers, one for heresy and the other for defamation of character and chewing tobacco, were instituted at the session of the East Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at the First M. E. church here Thursday.

Rev. Charles W. Tinsley, of Youngstown, was accused of preaching contrary to the "established standards" and of being "unministerial and un-Christian-like" in his attitude toward man. His trial began at 1:30 o'clock in the First M. E. church.

Rev. W. B. King, of Uhrichsville, was formally arraigned before the investigating committee of the conference for the tobacco habit and alleged slander of Presiding Elder Henthorne, who in turn has preferred charges to be heard later.

The trial of Dr. King lasted all day. Those who took part were sworn to secrecy. The principal witness was Miss Meyers, whom Dr. King says he discharged from his choir some time ago, and who did not like the minister's talks against dancing, and moved to Cleveland. She told the committee of how her former pastor spat tobacco juice out the car window all the way from Cleveland to Uhrichsville one time.

Although the charges had been expected against Rev. Tinsley, still it was thought they would not be made until after the King-Henthorne trouble was settled. Rev. Tinsley was not present at the session any of the time and did not have any counsel present to challenge the committee of nine selected by the elders to make the inquiry into his alleged heretical discourses. Rev. A. Simmons was made chairman of the probers.

Just in what respect Rev. Tinsley preached heresy the charges did not say. They were brief and general and were referred to a committee of presiding elders to appoint a committee of inquiry.

The charges were signed by six members of the conference. The communication was read by Rev. O. W. Holmes, presiding elder of the Youngstown district. The preferring of the charges came out of a clear sky. The conference was considering routine business when Rev. Holmes suddenly arose and announcing that he had a "very sad duty to perform" read the charges.

The charges declare that "we the undersigned members of the East Ohio conference, believing the teachings of Dr. C. W. Tinsley to be contrary to the articles of religion and the established standards of doctrine, and, believing that his spirit and attitude toward his brothers to be unministerial and un-Christian, we respectfully ask that a committee of inquiry be appointed to investigate."

MAKING A BLUFF

WELL-MEANING CITIZENS WHO WORK ALONG WRONG LINES.

KNOCKING THE HOME TOWN

Her Commercial Clubs Fail in Work Undertaken for the Improvement of Local Conditions.

In a western town not long since a General Call was issued to citizens to hold a Meeting for the purpose of organizing a Business Men's Association, or as the papers announced, a Commercial club. According to the Newspaper Reports of the event the meeting was a Grand Success, and some 40 or 50 prominent citizens enrolled their names as members. Thus the Commercial club was started on its Career.

Among the active citizens and those who were foremost in advocating the Club as an Important Thing for the welfare of the Town, were a Minister and a Lawyer. The good clergyman was made the Secretary, a Banker of the town was elected President, and the Lawyer Treasurer. As is usual with such clubs, a Constitution and By-laws were adopted; an Executive Committee appointed, and also a Hustling Committee to add Push to the club. It was outlined that by harmony and co-operation the town could be Boomed and made much Better. One of the Things desired was a Public Library. Among the other Things were Manufacturing Enterprises, a Creamery and another Elevator for the town, to compete with the one Elevator already located there.

Six months of careful labor on the part of the Commercial Club developed the fact that the efforts towards securing any of these Things were without results. There was no Library, the Creamery Proposition was considered unfavorable, as the farmers could secure more by shipping their cream out of Town than the Creamery could afford to pay, and as to the Elevator, only a part of the Stock necessary for its start was subscribed. An investigation revealed that out of this very same town each day an average of more than $200 was being sent to Outside Cities for Goods that might as well have been purchased at the home stores. It was discovered that the Minister, who was the Secretary of the Club, all the while he was Advocating Town Improvement, was quietly Working among the Members of his Flock to secure Orders for Groceries and other goods to send to a Chicago alleged co-operative concern. He was receiving five per cent. commission on all Purchases made. The Lawyer of the town, who was made the Treasurer of the Club, was sending away for the Clothes he wore, and even the Banker could not find Carpets sufficiently good in his home town, and sent away the money to a foreign place for rugs, and also a Piano that ornamented his home.

These misled Enterprising Citizens were working all along the wrong lines. While they were Anxious to Improve the Town, to start the Creamery—that, perhaps, would keep a few thousand dollars a year in the town—an Elevator that was almost unnecessary, as the one already located in the Town was capable of handling all the grain produced in the neighborhood, and would result in no saving or the bringing in of greater income, they overlooked the importance of devising means of retaining Business to the Town that was going away from it. The very ones intrusted with the Building Up of the Industries of the Place were foremost in turning over to other communities the Dollars that should be retained to improve the Home Trade, and make Wealthy the community.

Moral—It would be well for members of Commercial Clubs to take heed that the most important action for the Club to take is to Devise Means of Protecting Enterprises already established instead of gaining new Enterprises of Doubtful Utility.

FOR MAIL-ORDER TRADE.

Factories Where Adulterated and Misbranded Goods are Put Up.

A visit made a short time ago by the health officers of Chicago to a factory where canned goods were prepared for the mail-order trade, disclosed the fact that it was a rank artificial food factory. Tomato catsups were made from pumpkin pulp; fine strawberry and raspberry jam was made from glucose, starch and the only evidence of fruits were a lot of dried apple peelings and cores, which were used as a base. The seed supposed to the berry seeds, was grass seed; the natural coloring was coal tar dyes, and in the whole thing was a fraud factory from start to finish. Several thousand cans of fruit were found. These were old, several years perhaps, and the labels dirty showing their age. From these the labels were removed and new ones put on. These goods were dead stock on the manufacturers' hands, until bought for a mere song by the mail-order concern.

Roof Gardens for Berlin.

It is proposed to introduce roof gardens in Berlin. A good many doctors and professors are doing all they can in favor of the scheme, and are agitating for the gardens, particularly in the narrower city thoroughfares. The idea would not be difficult to carry out, the houses being mostly all of one height, and it is already possible in many parts to walk from one street to the next along a good broad roof track.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS.

How Agricultural Towns Can Assist In Preventing "Corners" in Produce.

Now and then complaint is heard of how the large packing houses and handlers of produce manipulate prices of eggs and poultry. These concerns are enabled to do this through their facilities for extensively handling goods and preserving them in their mammoth cold storage plants. Their system is to buy in the lowest market and hold the produce until the demand is such that prices reach the top notch.

It is evident that were the business men of small towns to follow out to some extent the plans of these large houses, the home market would be materially improved. In the agricultural towns merchants are the most extensive handlers of farmers' produce. This business is incidental to the mercantile business, and few merchants have proper facilities for the storing and proper care of perishable goods, therefore, immediately upon receiving supplies from the farmer, consignments are made to the commission houses in the large cities, and thus are the large commission men enabled to obtain control of the markets and to manipulate prices.

Each agricultural community produces enough poultry and eggs and miscellaneous dairy products to support a prosperous exclusive produce house. But when the articles that the farmers have for sale are distributed among a dozen or more stores, each acting independently, it is evident that highest market prices cannot be paid. The plan proposed for the organization of co-operative produce companies in each town has many desirable points in its favor. At small expense a coldstorage plant of adequate capacity to handle all perishable products of the community can be put in order. A plant of this kind, if rightly managed, would greatly improve the conditions of the local markets and higher prices could be paid for produce than the merchants could afford to pay for the same.

A number of towns in the middle west have adopted this system, and with success. Not alone have the home markets been greatly improved, but a greater volume of trade has been brought to the merchants. Should this plan be universally followed, in agricultural districts, it would lessen the opportunity for the manipulation of prices of produce, and the "cornering of the market" by the large commission and packing houses.

THERE MUST BE MERIT.

Drawing the Line in the Matter of Patronage of Home Institutions.

While it is the duty of every home loving and patriotic citizen to encourage and support home enterprise, it should be part of the principle that the home enterprises should be such as to merit support. The matter of service and of competition are important. It must be a public spirited citizen, indeed, who will willingly pay home merchants exorbitant prices for what is needed, when the same goods can be purchased in some nearby town at lower prices. The local bank should be patronized, if well conducted, and those in charge of it men of integrity and enterprise. But ofttimes there are illustrations of local industries being conducted in such unbusinesslike ways as to not win the confidence of the people in the community. Under such circumstances little censure can be given those who will seek foreign institution when they have money to deposit.

While it may be true that the smaller towns and cities do not afford unprincipled schemers the chance to conduct business, illustrations sufficient, now and then, present themselves to the people to make them cautious and perhaps prejudice them against patronizing some home institutions.

Too often it is found that insurance companies, investment concerns, banks and mercantile establishments put forth the plea of being home institutions and thus should be patronized, while in fact their methods of conduct are such as to not win the confidence of the people. Merit is an important factor in the home trade matter, and no argument can be made that will justify the people of a community giving support to institutions that are unsound, or which are managed in a way as to impose upon the residents of the community.

HELPING ALONG THE TRUSTS.

Sending Money Away from Rural Districts Assist in Making Them.

It appears as if the trusts are in the country to stay. The legislative action of the government seems to merely mean a little more regulation. Trusts generally have their starting point in Wall street. It is to Wall street that the money earned by them goes. Each trust industry means so much more for the coffers of the multi-millionaires. It is a sorry fact that the people of the country have been for years bamboozled by trust managers, and unknowingly have been compelled to donate toward their support. That the great mail-order concerns in Chicago have been backed up by Wall street capital has just become evident. Within the past few months Wall street financiers have decided to build up even greater in the mail-order business, and one concern has had its capital increased to $40,000,000. It has been toward such a monster enterprise the people of the west have been turning their trade the past several years, and by so doing have kept western communities from advancing.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

HEAD OF WESTERN UNION

Lieut. Col. Robert C. Clowry, president of the Western Union, is charged by O. D. Banks, of Salt Lake City, with being "The meanest man in the world," and President Small, the strike leader, quotes the charge approvingly. He says that the agreement entered into after the last strike was willfully violated, by Col. Clowry's subordinates, and that many of the operators were never taken back, or were so harassed that they had finally to quit.

Col. Clowry may not be popular with the strikers, but he certainly is with the directors of the company. It is 55 years ago that he entered the office of the company in Joliet, Ill., and asked for a job as messenger, offering to work for six months for nothing, in order to learn telegraphy. At the end of six months he was given an office in Lockport, and from that time his rise has been steady, till he completed his fiftieth year of service by rising to the position of president of the company. His rule has always been to do more than the company paid him for, and it is a rule he applies to others as well as himself.

When the civil war broke out he offered his services to the government and was given charge of a department with the rank of captain. His work commended itself to the government and he retired from the army at the close of the war with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Col. Clowry has always been a lonely man since his wife died in early life, leaving him without a single child. He gave up society then and has never taken to it since. He finds his pleasures among men of his own age and tastes and in business.

SECURED DIAMOND FOR KING

Gen. Louis Botha, the rugged Boer leader who is now premier of the Transvaal colony of the British empire, has attracted the attention of the world again by his act in securing a $1,000,000 gift for King Edward.

The Transvaal assembly, by a vote of 42 to 19, passed a resolution introduced by Botha, authorizing the colony to purchase the $1,000,000 diamond, the largest in the world, and the presentation of it to the king as a thank offering because he granted a constitution and self-government to the South African colony conquered by Britain less than ten years ago.

This resolution of Premier Botha recalls the stirring times of the Boer war. Premier Botha as Gen. Botha was one of the bitterest foes of the English government during that terrible struggle. His fighting and management of his troops at Colenso and Spion Kop, two of the most serious reverses suffered by the British in the South African war, made him a great hero. He succeeded Gen. Joubert in command of the Transvaal army on the death of the old hero of Majuba Hill, and was at that time mentioned as a possible candidate for the presidency, though he was then but 36 years old. After the British had defeated the Boers Botha attended the colonial conference at London and he was the hero of London, partly, no doubt, from a genuine sentiment of admiration such as made the Russians acclaim Osman Pasha the defender of Plevna. The granting of self-government, which later followed the ending of the war, was bitterly opposed by a majority of the London press. During the colonial conference Botha expressed his loyalty to the British government, and he was severely criticised in South Africa by De Wet and others for going to the conference at all. However, subsequent developments have shown that he was working solely in the interest of the people of the Transvaal.

Botha had no military experience when the war broke out, but he rose from the ranks to commander-in-chief within six months after taking the field. He had been a sheep raiser, but became a soldier by necessity and a successful tactician by instinct. He was the youngest general in the ranks of the Boer soldiers. Daring allied with caution was his motto.

MOORISH PRETENDER

Mulai El Hafid, brother of the sultan of Morocco, and viceroy of several provinces, has been declared sultan by the Arab tribes now in revolt in the African kingdom and is recognized as the leader of "holy war" on the foreigners. Several important chiefs are marching their forces to join his command. The whole country is in excitement and the real ruler is cooped up in Fez between the pretender to the throne, who is confining his fighting to the coast, and Raisuli, the bandit, who is on the other side in the mountainous country.

The situation is becoming serious on account of the success of these two warring factions and a cablegram to the war department at Washington advises that Raisuli has completely defeated the large force sent against him by the reigning sultan in an attempt to secure the release of Kaid Maclean, who is commander-in-chief of the entire fighting forces of the sultan. Several times it has been announced that Maclean had been released by the notorious bandit, but subsequent developments proved this to be untrue.

The capture of Maclean and the fighting of Mulai el Hafid may cause the downfall of the empire of Morocco. The army always looked upon Maclean as the only leader, and his inability to free himself and aid the sultan's troops in putting down the outbreak of these two powerful forces is having a telling effect on the situation.

With Raisuli winning against the sultan's large forces and Mulai el Hadfi's forces being gradually increased in numbers, the situation suddenly has become acute. Should the empire fall there seems to be little doubt that Mulai el Hafid will take the throne as ruler. He has always been an insurrectionist and a pretender to the throne.

It is entirely probable, however, that if Mulai does become sultain he will be a figurehead, like the khedive of Egypt, for France is not likely to leave the country now and take chances on its soon returning to its ordinary state of unrest, brigandage and revolution.

SAYS MARS "TEASES HIM"

Prof. Edward Charles Pickering, Harvard's leading astronomer and scientist, has startled the world of astronomy and astro-physics by declaring that "Mars teases" him and that he has "abandoned any further investigations" of that much-mooted planet.

Prof. Pickering has been connected with Harvard since 1877. He was born in Boston, July 19, 1846. He is one of the best-educated men of the time, and established the first physical laboratory in the United States. The study of light and spectra of the stars have been special features of his work. He made more than 1,000,000 measures of the light of the stars. By establishing an auxiliary station at Arequipa, Peru, southern stars also are observed, extending the work from pole to pole. He is the author of "Elements of Physical Manipulation" and 50 volumes of annals and other publications of Harvard college observatory.

He received the appointment of chairman of the Carnegie institution at Washington, a fitting tribute to the valued work he has accomplished in astronomy and the sciences. In 1886 he was honored by the R. A. S. with its gold medal for his photometric researches, and he is an associate member of the society.

His measurements of the light of Jupiter's satellites while in process of eclipse and of the satellites of Mars and other very faint objects, make up some of the most delicate work done in this branch of science. His development of the Harvard observatories has made them renowned throughout the world.

CHAS. J. HOWARD, of Portage.

The Duty of Pennsylvania.

In the opinion of State Chairman Andrews, Pennsylvania must block the way of the tariff tinkers who would, in the face of a presidential campaign, possibly wreck the Republican party by reckless revenue revision. Mr. Andrews is among the most earnest of the stand patters and with thousands of other members of his party believes that nothing should be done at this time in a matter of such peril to the party in power, particularly as there is no great demand for tariff changes on the part of the people, the clamoring being largely done by the politicians.

Mr. Andrews says the industries of Pennsylvania have too much at stake to look with complacency upon any movement having changing of the tariff as its object. The opening of the door to the slightest degree would inaugurate a period of doubt and uncertainty which would be reflected in the utter demoralization of Pennsylvania industries. Mr. Andrews is undoubtedly right, but his remarks do not go far enough. He might have said tariff tinkering would have a demoralizing and blighting effect on the industries of the entire country.

If the Republicans succeed in the next presidential election, and there is every indication that they will, then they may go about tariff revision with out causing public hysteria, because it is realized that with the "Grand Old Party" in control only such schedules will be changed as are demanded by altered conditions. But if the door is thrown wide open on the brink of a presidential campaign, who knows what it will lead to or what the ultimate results will be.

Mr. Andrews views witn marked satisfaction the prospects of a large Republican majority in this state this fall. In view of the coming national fight he believes it to be the duty of Republicans to turn out to a man and roll up such a vote as will show just where we stand on the great questions that affect this country. A review of the field will show that he has reason to be hopeful. That there is a large normal Republican majority in Pennsylvania is not disputed. Except as a result of some great reversal of public opinion due to scandalous abuse that majority is always cast for party candidates. The battle this fall finds the Democrats without a campaign slogan and without an issue. That of the grafting at Harrisburg has been worn threadbare. Besides, it cast no reflection on the Republican party, which is moving vigorously to punish the guilty. From every section comes cheering assurance that there will this fall be a return of old-time Republican majorities.—Scranton Republican.

The are a great many people who have slight attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia nearly all the time. Their food may satisfy the appetite but it fails to nourish. the body simply because the stomach is not in fit condition to do the work it is supposed to do. It can't digest the food you eat. The stomach should be given help. You ought take something that will do the work your stomach can't do. Kodol for Indigestion and Dyspepsia a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids, digests the food itself and gives strength and health to the stomach. Pleasant to take. Sold by R. C. Citizens Crowd to Hear Republican Nominee For Treasurer.

HE IS THE MAN OF THE HOUR

Ovation Given the Former Apprentice Boy at Baldwin's By Shipyard Workers In Kensignton and County Meetings Are Largely Attended.

[Special Correspondence.]
Philadelphia, Sept. 17.

With remarkable earnestness and enthusiasm for an off year the Republicans of Pennsylvania are pushing their campaign for the election of John O. Sheatz as state treasurer in every county in the state.

The demand from the voters to hear Mr. Sheatz is unprecedented under the circumstances. Two weeks before the time for which his canvass was scheduled to be opened, he has had to keep upon the go responding to calls to address meetings, to attend county fairs, and to take part in gatherings of Grangers and other bodies of citizens of the grand old commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Sheatz does not claim to be an orator. He is a plain, matter of fact business man; an honest, sincere, unsophisticated man of the people. Wherever he has spoken he has made friends and wherever his pledges to conduct the office of state treasurer in accordance with the promises made at the outset of his campaign are heard, they are believed.

He has made votes wherever he has gone, whether he spoke to his old neighbors of Berks county, or to the sturdy Republicans of the adjoining county of Lehigh, where he addressed several thousands at the Republican county meeting at Emaus, or to the great assemblage in Northampton that cheered him to the echo at the county meeting at Bethlehem, or at the Elks' clam bake in Allegheny county, where fully 20,000 citizens gave him a tremendous ovation, or at the meeting last week in the Kensington district of Philadelphia, where 5000 employes of the ship yards in that section saluted him as a former apprentice boy working in overalls in Baldwin's locomotive works, and resolved to roll up a handsome majority for him on election day—it was the same story.

Sheatz—the Man of the Hour.

The man of the hour—a man to meet every requirement of a faithful, honest, economical administration of the office of state treasurer.

Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, who is working night and day to keep up with his correspondence with Republicans in every county in the state who are enlisted for Mr. Sheatz's campaign, is looking forward to great results as the outcome of the activity of the members of the State League of Republican Clubs, of which Mr. Sheatz is vice president.

After addressing the club men's convention, Candidate Sheatz will go to the Hanover fair in Susquehanna county on Thursday of next week, and on the following day he is booked to address a meeting in Wilkes-Barre, where great preparations are being made by prominent Republicans to give him a cordial reception. Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith will accompany Mr. Sheatz to Wilkes-Barre and make a speech in favor of his election.

Wants to Meet the People.

After next week Mr. Sheatz will have a regular itinerary and will speak once or twice almost every day until the end of the campaign.

"I want to meet the voters face to face," remarked Mr. Sheatz, a few days ago. "I want them to see what manner of man I am, and to talk to them frankly upon the issues of the campaign. I want to leave it to them to judge whether my record at Harrisburg as a member of the legislature does not justify confidence in my fulfilling all my pledges regarding the administration of the office of state treasurer."

What Our Reporter saw in New York

A recent visit to one of the largest paint factories in the world disclosed machinery that was producing 10,000 gallons of Paint, and doing it better and in less time than 100 gallons could be made by hand mixing.

This was the celebrated L. & M. Paint.

The L. & M. Zinc hardens L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. Paint wear like iron for 10 or 15 years.

4 gallons L. & M., mixed with 3 gallons Linseed Oil makes 7 gallons of paint at a cost of less than $1.20 per gallon.

If any defect exists in L. & M., Paint, will repaint house for nothing.

A Humane Appeal.

A humane citizen of Richmond, Ind. Mr. U. D. Williams, 107 West Main St., says: "I appeal to all persons with weak lungs to take Dr. King's New Discovery, the only remedy that has helped me and fully comes up to the proprietor's recommendation." It saves more lives than all other throat and lung remedies put together. Used as a cough and cold cure the world over. Cures asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, hoarseness, and phthistic, stops hemorrhages of the lungs and builds them up. Guaranteed at all drug stores. 50c. and $1.00. HAPPY WOMEN.

Plenty of Them in Pennsylvania, and Good Reason for it.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
She finds relief and cure?

No reason why any Pennsylvania reader should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Sallie K. Dittling, of 1014 Hemlock St., Harrisburg, Pa., says: "My mother was greatly benefited by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. She suffered for years with kidney complaint and there was an almost constant aching across the small of her back and pain through her body. Frequent attacks of dizziness added to her trouble and the secretions from the kidneys were in a very bad condition. She was treated by a physician but was unable to get relief. Nothing did her any good until we procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for her. Their good effects were noticeable from the start, and after finishing one box there was a decided improvement in every way. She can now rest well and has a much better appetite. We can certainly speak well of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

C. B. Howard & Co., have received from the Pacific Coast what is perhaps he finest lot of RED CEDAR shingles that ever came to Cameron county.

WHY YOU SHOULD SEE JAMESTOWN.

The Jamestown Exposition is no longer a prospect, it has developed into an interesting reality. Its field is distinctly historical, and it liberally illustrates by picture and reproduction the development of American civilization and American institutions from the day of the first settlement on Jamestown peninsula in 1607 through three hundred years to the present time. Famous buildings in the Nationl history have been reproduced by thirty different states, filled with memories of the olden times and of memorials of the upward march.

The National Government has taken a keen interest in the Exposition, and is one of its chief exhibitors. The display of modern warships of all nations on Hampton Roads is unique and attractive feature, and the military manoeuvers lend a stirring touch of the daily program.

The Jamestown Exposition is a prominent event in our National history and should be visited by every American citizen who desires to see what three hundred years of American enterprise has wrought in our land.

The Pennsylvania Railroad offers attractive series via Pennsylvania and its "Cape Charles Route," by its routes via Baltimore and the Cheaspeake Bay lines, via Washington and the Potomac River line, and via Washington and Richmond. The rates are reasonable and the fare varies according to the route and leugth of the stay.

Ask Ticket Agents for rates of fare, stop-over privileges and time of trains.

GOOD COOKING

Good Cooking has a whole lot to do with good health. Good cooking comprises a lot of things. It requires proper ingredients, brains, experience, care and the right equipment. Without the latter the others are of little avail. We cannot sell you the experience or brains necessary for good cooking, but we can sell you the best kitchen equipment. The beauty of these things is that the cost puts them within everybody's reach.

CUPID OBJECTS

Dan Cupid refuses to allow his sentiments to be expressed on a cheap flimsy writing paper. To show respect and refinement and to pass Cupid's O. K. we must pen our words on a good substantial paper—one which takes the ink easily and of which we need not be ashamed. It is easy to write on a bad paper; but it is easier to do so on a good one. The cost is so little and the benefit so large, that you can't afford to use the bad. BERKSHIRE LINEN FABRIC, Correct in every detail.

CHAPTER I.

It is rather difficult in these days for a man who takes such scant interest in foreign affairs—trust a whilom diplomat for that!—to follow the continual geographical disturbances of European surfaces. Thus, I can not distinctly recall the exact location of the Grand Duchy of Barscheit or of the neighboring principality of Doppelkinn. It meets my needs and purposes, however, to say that Berlin and Vienna were easily accessible, and that a three hours' journey would bring you under the shadow of the Carpathian range, where, in my diplomatic days, I used often to hunt the "bear that walks like a man."

Barscheit was known among her sister states as "the meddler," the "maker of trouble," and the duke as "Old Grumpy"—Brummbar. To use a familiar Yankee expression, Barscheit had a finger in every pie. Whenever there was a political broth making, whether in Italy, Germany or Austria, Barsceit would snatch up a ladle and start in. She took care of her own affairs so easily that she had plenty of time to concern herself with the affairs of her neighbors. This is not to advance the opinion that Barscheit was wholly modern; far from it. The fault of Barscheit may be traced back to a certain historical pillar of salt, easily recalled by all those who attended Sunday school. "Rubbering" is a vulgar phrase, and I disdain to use it.

When a woman looks around it is invariably a portent of trouble; the man forgets his important engagement, and runs amuck, knocking over people, principles and principalities. If Aspasia had not observed Pericles that memorable day; if there had not been an oblique slant to Calypso's eyes as Ulysses passed her way; if the eager Delilah had not offered favorable comment on Samson's ringlets; in fact, if all the women in history and romance had gone about their affairs as they should have done, what uninteresting reading history would be to-day!

Now, this is a story of a woman who looked around, and of a man who did not keep his appointment on time; out of a grain of sand, a mountain. Of course there might have been other causes, but with these I'm not familiar.

This Duchy of Barscheit is worth looking into. Imagine a country with telegraph and telephone and medieval customs, a country with electric lights, railways, surface cars, hotel elevators and ancient laws! Something of the customs of the duchy must be told in the passing, though, for my part, I am vigorously against explanatory passages in stories of action. Barscheit bristled with militarism; the little man always imitates the big one, but lacks the big man's excuses. Militarism entered into and overshadowed the civic laws.

There were three things you might do without offense: you might bathe, eat and sleep, only you must not sleep out loud. The citizen of Barscheit was hemmed in by a set of laws which had their birth in the dark dungeons of the Inquisition. They congealed the blood of a man born and bred in a commercial country. If you broke a law, you were relentlessly punished; there was no mercy. In America we make laws and then hide them in dull-looking volumes which the public have neither the time nor the inclination to read. In this duchy of mine it was different; you ran into a law on every corner, in every park, in every public building: little oblong signs, enameled, which told you that you could not do something or other—"Forbidden!" The beauty of German laws is that when you learn all the things that you can not do, you begin to find out that the things you can do are not worth a hang in the doing.

As soon as a person learned to read he or she began life by reading these laws. If you could not read, so much the worse for you; you had to pay a guide who charged you almost as much as the full cost of the fine.

The opposition political party in the United States is always howling militarism, without the slightest idea of what militarism really is. One side, please, in Barscheit, when an officer comes along, or take the consequences. If you carelessly bumped into him, you were knocked down. If you objected, you were arrested. If you struck back, ten to one you received a beating with the flat of a saber. And never, never mistake the soldiery for the police; that is to say, never ask an officer to direct you to any place. This is regarded in the light of an insult. The cub lieutenants do more to keep a passable sidewalk—for the passage of said cub lieutenants—than all the magistrates put together. How they used to swagger up and down the Konigsstrasse, around the Platz, in and out of the restaurants! I remember doing some side-stepping myself, and I was a diplomat, supposed to be immune from the rank discourtesies of the military. But that was early in my career.

In a year not so remote as not to be readily recalled, the United States packed me off to Barscheit because I had an uncle who was a senator. Some papers were given me, the permission to hang out a shingle reading "American Consul," and the promise of my board and keep. My amusements were to be paid out of my own pocket. Straightway I purchased three horses, found a capable Japanese valet, and selected a cozy house near the barracks, which stood west of the Volksgarten, on a pretty lake. A beautiful road ran around this body of water, and it wasn't long ere the officers began to pass comments on the riding of "that wild American." As I detest what is known as park riding, you may very well believe that I circled the lake at a clip which must have opened the eyes of the easy-going officers. I grew quite chummy with a few of them, and I may speak of occasions when I did not step off the sidewalk as they came along. A man does more toward gaining the affection of foreigners by giving a good dinner now and then than by international law. I gained considerable fame by my little dinners at Muller's rathskeller, under the Continental hotel.

Six months passed, during which I rode, read, drove and dined, the actual labors of the consulate being cared for by a German clerk who knew more about the business than I did.

By this you will observe that diplomacy has degenerated into the gentle art of exciting jaded palates and of scribbling one's name across passports; I know of no better definition. I forget what the largess of my office was.

Presently there were terrible doings. The old reigning grand duke desired peace of mind; and moving determinedly toward this end, he declared in public that his niece, the young and tender Princess Hildegarde, should wed the Prince of Doppelkinn, whose vineyards gave him a fine income. This was finality; the avuncular guardian had waited long enough for his willful ward to make up her mind as to the selection of a suitable husband; now he determined to take a hand in the matter. And you shall see how well he managed it.

It is scarcely necessary for me to state that her highness had her own ideas of what a husband should be like, gathered, no doubt, from execrable translations from "Ouida" and the gentle Miss Braddon. A girl of 20 usually has a formidable regard for romance, and the princess was fully up to the manner of her kind. If she could not marry romantically, she refused to marry at all.

I can readily appreciate her uncle's perturbation. I do not know how many princelings she thrust into utter darkness. She would never marry a man who wore glasses; this one was too tall, that one too short; and when one happened along who was without visible earmarks or signs of being shop-worn her refusal was based upon just —"Because!"—a weapon as invincible as the fabled spear of Parsifal. She had spurned the addresses of Prince Mischler, laughed at those of the Count of — — — — (the short dash indicates the presence of a hyphen) and General Muerrisch, of the emperor's body-guard, who was, I'm sure, good enough—in his own opinion—for any woman. Every train brought to the capital some suitor with a consonated, hyphenated name and a pedigree as long as a bore's idea of a funny story. But the princess did not care for pedigrees that were squint-eyed or bow-legged. One and all of them she cast aside as unworthy her consideration. Then, like the ancient worm, the duke turned. She should marry Doppelkinn, who, having no wife to do the honors in his castle, was wholly agreeable.

The Prince of Doppelkinn reigned over the neighboring principality. If you stood in the middle of it and were a baseball player, you could throw a stone across the frontier in any direction. But the vineyards were among the finest in Europe. The prince was a widower, and among his own people was affectionately styled "der Rotnasig," which, I believe, designates an illuminated proboscis. When he wasn't fishing for rainbow trout he was sleeping in his cellars. He was often missing at the monthly reviews, but nobody ever worried; they knew where to find him. And besides, he might just as well sleep in his cellars as in his carriage, for he never rode a horse if he could get out of doing so. He was really good-natured and easy-going, so long as no one crossed him severely; and you could tell him a joke once and depend upon his understanding it immediately, which is more than I can say for the duke.

Years and years ago the prince had had a son; but at the tender age of three the boy had run away from the castle confines, and no one ever heard of him again. The enemies of the prince whispered among themselves that the boy had run away to escape compulsory military service, but the boy's age precluded this accusation.

The Princess Hildegarde.

The prince advertised, after the fashion of those times, sent out detectives and notified his various brothers; but his trouble went for nothing. Not the slightest trace of the boy could be found. So he was mourned for a season, regretted and then forgotten; the prince adopted the grape arbor.

I saw the prince once. I do not blame the Princess Hildegarde for her rebellion. The prince was not only old; he was fat and ugly, with little, elephant-like eyes that were always vein-shot, restless and full of mischief. He might have made a good father, but I have nothing to prove this. Those bottles of sparkling Moselle which he failed to dispose of to the American trade he gave to his brother in Barscheit or drank himself. He was 68 years old.

A nephew, three times removed, was waiting for the day when he should wabble around in the prince's shoes. He was a lieutenant in the duke's body-guard, a quick-tempered, heady chap. Well, he never wabbled around in his uncle's shoes, for he never got the chance.

I hadn't been in Barscheit a week before I heard a great deal about the princess. She was a famous horsewoman. This made me extremely anxious to meet her. Yet for nearly six months I never even got so much as a glimpse of her. Half of the six months she was traveling through Austria, and the other half she kept out of my way, —not intentionally; she knew nothing of my existence; simply, fate moved us about blindly. At court she was invariably indisposed, and at the first court ball she retired before I arrived. I got up at all times, galloped over all roads, but never did I see her. She rode alone, too, part of the time.

PULLING FENCE POSTS.

A Hard Task Made Easy by Use of Plank and Chain.

An easy and practical method of pulling posts, by which all digging and had labor is eliminated, is shown in cut. Take a plank, 1 ft. wide, 4 ft. long, and make a V-shaped notch at one end, nailing on several crosspieces to prevent splitting. This plank is used to change the horizontal draft to the vertical. Place one end of the chain around the post close to the ground, incline the plank against the post so the lower end will be 1½ ft. from the base of the post, place the chain in the notch of the plank, hitch the team to the post and start up. In a few seconds the post is clear of the ground. In moving fences, says the Farm and Home, the chain should be attached to the rear axle of the wagon so the posts may be loaded and hauled to the new location.

THE FARMER BOY.

Temper the Work to His Strength and Let Him Have His Play Time.

Every farmer desires to keep his boy at home as long as he can do so, that he may thus live a protected life as long as possible. This is right. It is a mistake to permit the farm boy to launch out for himself at too tender an age. The father of the boy must remember that the muscles of the boy are not hard like his own and that he cannot do the same amount of work as he himself can do, with equal ease. The muscles of a growing boy are soft, for they are constantly being increased in size by the addition of new material.

Many farm boys are driven from the farm by too hard work. They are made to take the place of a hired man at a very early age and the father often forgets that they have not the same indifference to pleasures as himself. The boy needs a good deal of recreation and a chance to mingle with other farm boys. The farm boy should have a fair chance at the pleasures of childhood and youth, as the city boy has. His work should be carefully limited.

The usual farm boy is a worker anyway. He early learns to do the most difficult tasks on the farm, says Farmers' Review, and is worth much more to his parents than any hired man is worth. His parents should therefore study him and his needs. His needs include many things besides the food he gets and the clothes he wears. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," is an old saying, but strictly true. Many a farm boy has been overworked into a dullness that has lasted him his life through.

POINTERS.

A hedgehog—the neighbor who won't keep up his fences.—Farm Journal.

Some farmers find great advantage in sowing rye at the last working of the corn. Might try a patch.

The manure spreader has decreased the number of rich barnyards and increased the number of rich fields instead.

Don't sell any clover hay if you have stock to feed it to. It is worth nearly as much for fertilizer as for feed.

Sow only the plumpest, nicest wheat this fall. Run it through the fanning mill and take all the foul stuff out. Good seed is half the crop.

The cost of a pair of farm scales will be saved the first year in preventing the losses from guessing at weights of other products bought or sold.

The hoe is one of the most useful implements on the farm, but it is not automatic in its operations. To be effective it needs a strong arm and a willing hand.

Seed Alfalfa in Fall.

On account of the more abundant growth of weeds and grass in the spring and early summer, late summer or early fall seeding of alfalfa is recommended by the Pennsylvania Experiment Station. If the land is cultivated during the early part of the season and seeded to alfalfa in July or August, ideal conditions, so far as the establishment of the young plants is concerned, will be most nearly approached.

Don't Break the Hammer.

Look out! You'll break that hammer handle trying to pull that rusty nail. Hit the nail a rap or two, driving it into the wood; then it will come out easy, says Farm Journal. When part way out, put a bit of hard wood under the head of the hammer for a fulcrum. See how nice it works.

The Provident Farmer.

"He doesn't have to sell his crops," is the way farmers speak of a neighbor who is getting ahead. There is a whole volume in that expression.

JUST A GENTLE HINT.

One Remedy Appearances Indicated Nobleman Had Never Tried.

The earl of Surrey, afterward eleventh duke of Norfolk, who was a notorious gourmand and hard drinker and a leading member of the Beefsteak club, was so far from cleanly in his person that his servants used to avail themselves of his fits of drunkenness—which were pretty frequent, by the way—for the purpose of washing him. On these occasions they stripped him as they would a corpse and performed the needful ablutions.

He was equally notorious for his horror of clean linen. One day, on his complaining to Dudley North at his club that he had become a perfect martyr to rheumatism and tried every possible remedy without success ,the latter wittily replied:

"Pray, my lord, did you ever try a clean shirt?"

BRUTALITY OF MEDICAL ETHICS.

A Great Surgeon Barred from Membership in Medical Association.

(From the National Druggist for June, 1907.)

Dr. Augustus Charles Bernays, who died a few days ago in St. Louis, was, probably, the foremost surgeon in the United States. His fame was coextensive with the civilized world. He was not only an operator of the highest order, but a tireless and exhaustive worker in the field of original surgery. He performed the first successful Caesarian section in 1889 in St. Louis, and also the first successful coeliotomy for gunshot wound of the abdomen and the first gallstone operation in Missouri. A record held by Dr. Bernays has never been equaled: Out of eighty-one successive cases of appendicitis which necessitated operations, seventy-one in succession were with perfectly satisfactory results, the seventy-second patient failing of recovery, but the subsequent nine cases were successfully treated.

And yet, with such a record, matchless as was his skill, varied and extensive as was his learning, wonderful as were his accomplishments, he was not considered, by the American Medical Association, as worthy of membership in that organization.

No charges were ever brought against him which, in the remotest degree, reflected on his qualifications as a surgeon; his moral character was never the subject of attack; he was never accused of having done anything unbecoming a man or a gentleman. "The head and front of his offending had this extent—no more!" He dared to think! He refused to mold his opinions and to govern his actions by the arbitrary rules which those whom he knew to be his inferiors had set up for his guidance! In other words, he could not regard the Code of Ethics of the American Medical Association as being inspired, or having any binding authority on him where his judgment told him it was wrong. And so, twenty years ago or more, on account of some trivial infraction of this sacred "Code," a movement was started to expel him from the local association, which was only defeated by his hastily sending in his resignation. As membership in the A. M. A. is dependent upon membership in the local and State societies, his name was dropped by the national organization.

And so, though he had saved thousands of lives; though other physicians had profited by his art; this brilliant surgeon; this great and able man, has, during all these years, been an outcast—a medical "scab;" not recognized as "ethical" or worthy of fellowship by that body of physicians banded together in the American Medical Association!

And this is the association which, under pretense of working for the public good, is, in reality, only seeking to control Congress and the State Legislatures in the interest of their own selfish schemes; which is trying to create a Cabinet position and to place one of its members in that position; which is endeavoring by law to exclude from the use of the mails, all manufacturers of medicines who do not comply with the absurd requirements that they choose to set up; which, in short, is trying to put upon the statute books of State and nation laws that will, in effect, establish a kind of medical priesthood, to which only their own members will be eligible with power and control over the health and lives of the people!

God help the druggists, the drug manufacturers, physicians not members of their guild, and the people generally, if this association ever succeeds in its undertaking. If it does, it will, after the fashion of the labor unions, dictate a "closed shop," and say to doctors who prefer to be independent, "You must join our union or, failing to do so, compel them to get out of the business. It will say what medicines shall be taken, and how they shall be made. It will hedge the people about with a lot of petty regulations under pretense of protecting the public health. In fine, a medical bureaucracy will be established to tyrannize over the people.

Let no man call this a false alarm. If there are those who are inclined to do so, let them read the journal of the A. M. A. Let them scan the proceedings of the association, held always behind closed doors, and carefully edited, as they are, before they are published in its official organ. If they will do this they will see that we are not trying to create a bugaboo to frighten their timid souls.

This is true philanthropy that buries not its gold in ostentatious charity, but builds its human hospital in the human heart.—Thoroid.

A Case of STOMACH CATARRH.

Miss Mary O'Brien, 306 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "Peruna cured me in five weeks of catarrh of the stomach, after suffering for four years and doctoring without effect. In common with other grateful ones who have been benefited by your discovery, I say. All hail to Peruna."

Mr. H. J. Henneman, Oakland, Neb., writes: "I waited before writing to you about my sickness, catarrh of the stomach, which I had over a year ago.

"There were people who told me it would not stay cured, but I am sure that I am cured, for I do not feel any more ill effects, have a good appetite and am getting fat. So I am, and will say to all, I am cured for good.

"I thank you for your kindness. "Peruna will be our house medicine hereafter."

Catarrh of the stomach is also known in common parlance as dyspepsia, gastritis and indigestion. No medicine will be of any permanent benefit except it removes the catarrhal condition.

Gained Strength and Flesh.

Miss Julia Butler, R. R. 4, Appleton, Wis., writes she had catarrh of the stomach, causing loss of sleep and appetite, with frequent severe pains after eating. She took Pernua, her appetite returned, she gained strength, flesh and perfect health.

SPOT CASH

FOR SOLDIERS' HOMESTEAD RIGHTS

All soldiers who served ninety days or more in the federal army or navy between 1861-1865, and who made homestead entries for less than 160 acres on or before June 22, 1874, means that an additional right is due someone and that it can be sold to me for spot cash, no matter whether patent issued or not. If soldier is dead, his heirs are entitled. The right descends as follows: First, to the widow; and second, to the legal heirs, or next of kin. Talk to old soldiers, their widows, children, or next of kin, about this class of additional rights. Get busy right now and find some of your relatives who made homestead entries in early days. It's easy money. For further information address Comrade W. E. Moses, 80 California Building, Denver, Colo.

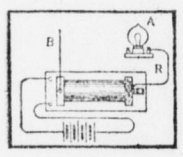
THE ELECTRICAL WORLD

TRY THIS.

An Interesting Electric Blue Light Experiment.

Take a jump-spark coil and connect it up with a battery and start the vibrator. Then take one outlet wire, R, and connect to one side of a two-candle-power electric lamp and the other outlet wire, B, hold in one hand and press all fingers of the other hand on globe at point A. A bright, blue light will come from the wires in the lamp to the surface of the globe where the fingers touch. But, says Popular Mechanics, no shock will be perceptible.



Electricity in Spain.

The recent increase in the use of electricity in Spain has been so rapid that an official report states that today very few localities exist where the electric light is not employed. This is particularly true of places situated near swiftly running streams. The consumption of electric lamps, even in the smallest villages, is described as being enormous. Everywhere electric motors are found taking the place of steam power. Yet the construction of electric apparatus in Spain has not kept step with the growth in its employment, 80 per cent. of the dynamos and motors being imported from Germany. Most of the remainder come from France and Switzerland.

Some curbstone brokers in New York are using wireless receivers instead of megaphones to get market quotations.

Giraffes and elephants are said to play havoc with telephone lines in Africa.

MACHINE DISPLACES MEN.

Electric Mechanical Bookkeeper Does Away with Clerks.

One of the leading Chicago banks, which employs 600 clerks, expects to be able to greatly reduce its force by the use of a new mechanical calculator. This machine, says Popular Mechanics, does much more than the adding machines already in general use. It adds, subtracts, divides and multiplies and caluculates in both vertical and horizontal lines simultaneously. It is operated by keys and resembles a typewriter. It is run by a small electric motor and prints its records. It is the invention of a bank bookkeeper, who has spent 12 years in perfecting it. He claims it will save one-half the time now spent in keeping books.

Development of Electric Road.

The electric railway had many "inventors"—persons who by various improvements brought the system to its present usefulness. Thomas Davenport, a blacksmith of Brandon, Vt., is credited with having first suggested the electric railway, although an Italian priest, Abbe Salvatore Del Negro, professor of natural history at the University of Padua, is reputed to have designed an electric toy traction machine of the reciprocating type in 1830. Davenport ran a toy motor mounted on wheels on a small circular railway in 1834, exhibiting this a year later at Springfield and Boston, Mass. About half a century passed, however, before the electric railway was made practical for present uses.

Sodium for Electric Uses.

Sodium is an excellent conductor of electricity, and in view of the increasing price of copper and the growing demand for that metal not only for electric installations, but for many other purposes, the idea has been broached that sodium should be tried as a material for electric cables. Experiments looking to this end have lately been made by Mr. A. G. Bett. He filled an iron tube 130 feet in length with melted sodium. The core thus formed had a cross-section of an inch and a half. A current of 500 amperes was readily transmitted through it. Mr. Bett thinks that sodium conductors constructed upon this plan may be made cheaper than conductors of copper.

An Efficient Wireless Telegraph.

A simple but very efficient wireless telegraph may be constructed at slight cost from the following description by George W. Richardson:

The sending apparatus consists of nothing but an induction coil with a telegraph key inserted in the primary circuit, i. e., the battery circuit. This apparatus can be purchased from any electrical supply house. The price of the coil depends upon its size, and upon the size depends the distance signals can be transmitted. If, however, one wishes to construct his own coil he can make and use, with slight changes, the jump spark coil described in the June number of Popular Mechanics. This coil, being a one-inch coil, will transmit nicely up to a distance of one mile; while a 12-inch coil made on the same plan will transmit 20 miles or even more under favorable conditions.

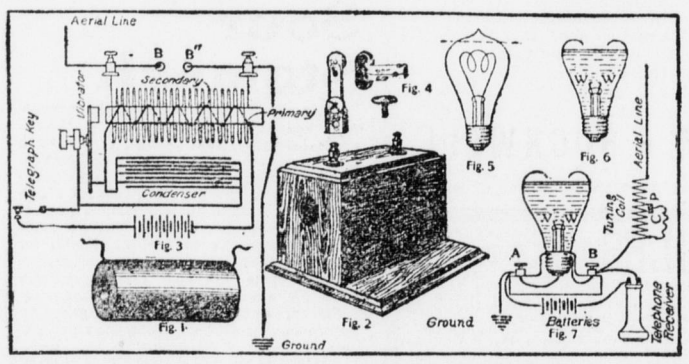
Change the coil described, as follows: Insert an ordinary telegraph key in the battery circuit, and attach two small pieces of wire with a brass ball on each, by inserting them in the binding-posts of the coil as shown at B, B inches. From these two terminal wires one is grounded to earth, while the other wire is sent aloft and is called the aerial line. This constitutes all there is to the sending apparatus.

Now for the receiving apparatus. In the earlier receiving instruments a coherer was used, consisting of a glass tube about one-eighth inch diameter, in which were two silver pistons separated by nickel and silver filings, in a partial vacuum. This receiver was difficult of adjustment and slow in transmission. An instrument much less complicated and inexpensive and which will work well can be made thus:

Take a five-candlepower lamp and break off the tip at the dotted line, as shown in Fig. 5. This can be done by giving the glass tip or point a quick blow with a file or other thin edged piece of metal. Then with a blow-torch heat the broken edges until red hot and turn the edges in as seen in Fig. 6. Remove the carbon filament in a lamp and bend the two small platinum wires so they will point at each other as in Fig. 6, W W. Screw the lamp into an ordinary wall socket which will serve as a base as in Fig. 7. Make a solution of four parts of water to one part sulphuric acid, and fill the lamp about two-thirds full (Fig. 7). This will make an excellent receiver. It will be necessary to adjust the platinum points, W W, to suit the distance the message is to be worked. For a mile or less the points should be about one-sixteenth inch apart, and closer for longer distances.

The tuning coil is simply a variable choking coil, made of No. 14 insulated copper wire wound on an iron core, as shown in Fig. 7. After winding, carefully scrape the insulation from one side of the coil, in a straight line from top to bottom, the full length of the coil, uncovering just enough to allow a good contact for the sliding piece. The tuning is done by sliding the contact piece, which is made of light copper wire, along the convolutions of the tuning coil until you can hear the signals. The signals are heard in a telephone receiver, which is shown connected in shunt across the binding-posts of the lamp holder with one or two cells of dry battery in circuit, Fig. 7.



The aerial line, No. 6 stranded, is run from binding-post B through the choking or tuning coil, and for best results should extend up 50 ft. in the air. To work a 20-mile distance the line should be 100 or 150 ft. above the ground. A good way is to erect a wooden pole on a house or barn and carry the aerial wire to the top and out to the end of a gaff or arm.

To the end of the aerial wire fasten a bunch of endless loops made of about No. 14 magnet wire (bare or insulated), attaching both ends to the leading or aerial wire. The aerial wire should not come nearer than 1 ft. at any point to any metal which is grounded.

Run a wire from the other binding-post, A, to the ground and be sure to make a good connection.

For simple experimental work on distances of a few hundred feet only, an ordinary automobile spark coil can be used in place of the more elaborate coil, Fig. 1 to 4.

WORN TO A SKELETON.

A Wonderful Restoration Caused a Sensation in a Pennsylvania Town.

Mrs. Charles N. Preston, of Elkland, Pa., says: "Three years ago I found that my housework was becoming a burden. I tired easily, had no ambition and was failing fast. My complexion got yellow, and I lost over 50 pounds. My thirst was terrible, and there was sugar in the kidney secretions. My doctor kept me on a strict diet, but as his medicine was not helping me, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me at once, and soon all traces of sugar disappeared. I have regained my former weight and am perfectly well."

'TWAS IN 'TATER TIME.

One Thing, at Least, the Mother Was Positive About.

The late Senator Platt of Connecticut enjoyed funny stories and could tell a good many himself. Notwithstanding his long public life, he always remembered a yarn that he carried from his school days.

One year when the district schools opened in his town one of the teachers, in making a record of the ages of her pupils, as required by law, found that one little girl, who came from a family not noted for being especially bright, was unable to say when her birthday came.

So in order to complete her records, the teacher walked two miles to see the girl's mother one afternoon after school. Asked if she could remember just when her daughter was born, the woman thought for some little time, and then with a sort of puzzled look, said:

"Well, the gal was born in 'tater time, that's sure, but I can't 'member whether they was a-plantin' on 'em or a-diggin' on 'em."

Tom Ochiltree's Moon.

After Tom Ochiltree, that able congress raconteur and laugh generator for the afflicted rich, settled in New York as the amuser of the John W. Mackay family, he effervesced in a thousand different directions, and was as good in some ways as Sam Ward. One night he escorted John Mackay's friend, the Count de Biscout, down to the Battery to show the sight of New York. The moon was grand, and the count went into raptures as "her maiden reflection rippled over the pearly waters." He cried: "Eet iss grand! Eet is grand! Dair iss no such moon in all Italy!" "Count," said Ochiltree, solemnly, as befitted the occasion, "you just ought to see the moon in Texas!"

A Pardonable Fault.

Dr. Edward Everett Hale, discussing a rather finicky attack that had been made on certain recent statements, smiled and said:

"But who or what is blamelesss? It is like the case of the Scottish hen. An old Scottish woman wished to sell a hen to a neighbor.

"'But tell me,' the neighbor said, 'is she a'thegither a guid bird? Has she got nae fauts, nae fauts at all?'

"'Awell, Margot,' the other old woman admitted, 'she has got one fault. She will lay on the Lord's day.'"

Tripped.

Gunner—So you think the DeBlowers are faking about their extended European tour?

Guyer—I should say so. They said there were so many Americans in Venice that many had to walk in the middle of the street.

Gunner—Well?

Guyer—Why, the streets of Venice are canals.

FAMILY FOOD.

Crisp, Toothsome and Requires No Cooking.

A little boy down in N. C. asked his mother to write an account of how Grape-Nuts food had helped their family

She says Grape-Nuts was first brought to her attention on a visit to Charlotte, where she visited the Mayor of that city who was using the food by the advice of his physician. She says:

"They derive so much good from it that they never pass a day without using it. While I was there I used the Food regularly. I gained about 15 pounds and felt so well that when I returned home I began using Grape-Nuts in our family regularly.

"My little 18 months old baby shortly after being weaned was very ill with dyspepsia and teething. She was sick nine weeks and we tried everything. She became so emaciated that it was painful to handle her and we thought we were going to lose her. One day a happy thought urged me to try Grape-Nuts soaked in a little warm milk.

"Well, it worked like a charm and she began taking it regularly and improvement set in at once. She is now getting well and round and fat as fast as possible on Grape-Nuts.

"Sometime ago several of the family were stricken with LaGrippe at the same time, and during the worst stages we could not relish anything in the shape of food but Grape-Nuts and oranges, everything else nauseated us.

"We all appreciate what your famous food has done for our family." "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

IN THE SUPERLATIVE DEGREE.

Little Son's Explanation Seemed to Cover the Case.

Little son, aged seven, whose training has been of the most painstaking and conscientious, rather took away his mother's breath in describing the dog's game of ball. He ended with:

"And, mother, Topsy caught the ball in her mouth, and then just ran like h—!"

"Like what?" cried the startled mother.

"W'y, like h—, don't you know, mother?" innocently.

"No, I don't believe I do. Just how is that, dear?" she asked faintly.

"Well, I don't know jus' what it means, myself," he confessed, "but it's a whole lot faster than 'lickety-split!'"

CASE OF ECZEMA IN SOUTH.

Suffered Three Years—Hands and Eye Most Affected—Now Well and Is Grateful to Cuticura.

"My wife was taken badly with eczema for three years, and she employed a doctor with no effect at all until she employed Cuticura Soap and Ointment. One of her hands and her left eye were badly affected, and when she would stop using Cuticura Soap and Ointment the eczema came back, but very slightly, but it did her a sight of good. Then we used the entire set of Cuticura Remedies and my wife is entirely recovered. She thanks Cuticura very much and will recommend it highly in our locality and in every nook and corner of our parish. I. M. Robert, Hydropolis, La., Jan. 5 and Sept. 1, 1906."

A Hopeless Case.

"Yes," said the business man, "I have given up trying to collect that little bill from Bilkins. You see, he is a big, muscular fellow, and he used to throw my collectors out."

"Then why didn't you employ a woman collector?" inquired a writer in Spare Moments. "He couldn't do that to a woman."

"That's what I thought, so I got one and sent her round, but she never came back."

"Why not?"

"He married her."

Statue Finally Completed.

When Alfred Stevens designed the noble monument to the duke of Wellington in St. Paul's cathedral, London, he intended that his work should be crowned by an equestrian statue. But Stevens died before his design was carried out. Now, 32 years after his death, the equestrian statue has been completed and before long will be placed in position.

Catarrh
To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety, cream like Petrolatum, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc. surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative.
For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

Sour Stomach
No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.
Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."
Kodol Digests What You Eat.
Bottles only. Relieves indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas, etc.
